The Wilderness Trekking School (WTS) is offered every spring and fall and consists of five mandatory class lectures and five mandatory field days. Topics include (but are not limited to) clothing, nutrition, navigation by map and compass, snow travel (including ice axe use and self-arrest), avalanche awareness, weather, and basic survival skills. Training and experience in these skills are mandatory to waive WTS. Completion (or waiver) of WTS, or completion of the CMC's Backpacking School, is required to obtain a "C" classification. It is the intention of this waiver to allow those CMC members who already possess the required skills to qualify for a "C" classification without being required to take WTS.

Please complete this form (legibly) and return to:
